NEWSLETTER JANUARY 2022

GCSE UPDATES

- Please make sure you have checked the adaptations for 2022 which are on the website here so that you are aware of the reduced NEA requirements for Performing and Composing.
- Keep an eye out on the website for details of the Advance Information. You can also find updated marksheets etc for 2022 Performing and Composing.
- Check out the e-submissions page to refresh your knowledge on how the uploading process works (or find out if you're new to us!) There is a step by step video you can watch.
- The deadline for submitting your Performing and Composing samples will be 5th May as usual. Remember that you need to allow 2 working days for your codes to arrive after you submit your marks.
- If you haven't checked recently it's worth having another look at the resources page – there will be new knowledge organisers added shortly, as well as the existing resources including those linked to the new set works.
- If you need an open evening leaflet you can download one in colour, or printer-friendly black and white from the website.

GCE UPDATES

- Please make sure you have checked the adaptations for 2022 which are on the website here, so that you are aware of the reduced NEA requirements for Performing and Composing.
- The performing examiners will be coming to listen to your candidates in 2022 (Omicron permitting...) so please make sure you have returned your Impossible dates information. See circular 029 in the November folder on the secure site.
- Keep an eye out on the website for details of the Advance Information. A level has already been published, and AS will be published next year.
- Check out the e-submissions page to refresh your knowledge on how the uploading process works (or find out if you're new to us!) There is a step by step video you can watch.
- The deadline for submitting the Composing work for every candidate will be 15th May as usual. The codes will be available in Surpass.
- If you need an open evening leaflet you can download one in colour, or printer-friendly black and white from the website.
